Purpose of donation: Provide a fishing net for a very poor tribal fisherman

Brief Description:

DONATIONS RECEIVED THROUGH GIVEINDIA ARE USED ONLY FOR POOR BENEFICIARIES.

The coastal part of Prakasam District of Andhra Pradesh comprises so many small habitats belonging to tribal fishermen. Fishing is their primary occupation and it is the only income source for most of them to lead their life. Since fishermen do not have any other way to earn money, they have to go the sea as often as possible. Sometimes they may live with hunger, when they cannot get sufficient fish to earn their food. The families, who are living in these habitats, are very poor and suffering with poverty, illiteracy, improper livelihood support, deprivation and unawareness, superstitions and social stigma. They get scanty income, which is hand to mouth.

It is fact that many tribal fishermen do not have enough fishing equipment and they catch fish by following their traditional practices 'stick nestles' and 'angling'. In these practices, they would have to spend much time, be patience and can catch fish only in nearby their locations. But, some few forward fishermen are using throw nylon fishing nets, which is easy equipment to use and comfort to travel with it wherever they go for catch fish. By using these nylon throw nets, they can get much fish in short time and can sell them in market in in-time at good price.

Hence, Chaithanya Educational and Rural Development Society had initiated this project and has been providing nylon throw fishing nets to the poor tribal fishermen to empower them for achieving a secured livelihood.

The beneficiary years, caste by scheduled tribe is living with his wife in a small thatched hut, insecure shelter. In fact, they have no house site, and so they are living here on kind of one of local wealthy family. While attends fish catching his wife sells them in local market. When CERDS was conducting a study for this project, it identified this family since it is one the disadvantaged families in the community. After the study, as was resolved, CERDS had provided a multi throw fishing net to this family on 15.04.2015 by using the sponsor amount of humanitarian , for improving their present livelihood conditions.

Now, is catching more fish easily than earlier practices by using new fishing net and getting an average of 4-5 Kgs of fish everyday, which costs is around Rs.150-170 in local market. This amount is helping them to get sufficient food and also to meet their basic expenses. As was given promise to CERDS, now they are educating their school age children and practicing savings regularly from their surplus earnings. Thus, this sponsor support brought confidence among this poor family and makes them free from hunger days. Accordingly, they are sincerely expressing their gratitude to the sponsor for helping them to improve their living standards.
